CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS,
CORPORATE
SEAL
INDIANA

INTRODUCTION

The volume herewith presented to patrons constitutes the 1921 edition of the INDIANAPOLIS CITY DIRECTORY. It has been compiled with great care after a thorough enumeration of the citizens and manifold business interests and activities of the municipality, and presents as complete and accurate a work as is possible to be produced, having in view the great volume of information and statistical data assembled for compilation. This result could not be achieved without the unrivalled organization and efficient and modern methods of the publishers. The high standard established in previous editions has been fully maintained. The Directory has kept pace with the uniform progress of the city and is steadily devoted to the advancement of all its vital interests.

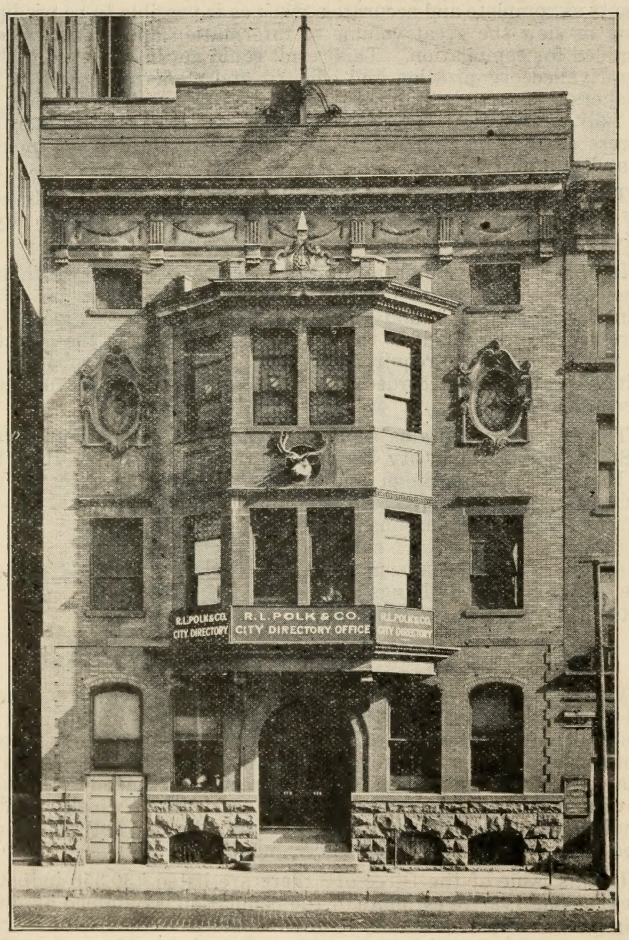
The statistical review which follows this Introduction is especially noteworthy as clearly visualizing the greatness of the city in its civic, social, commercial and industrial aspects.

In the present volume all of the essential features which have proven so satisfactory to our patrons in previous issues have been retained and amplified and improvements added as suggested by experience, in order to add to the value and usefulness of the Directory thus fully meeting the requirements of patrons; the approbation and continued patronage accorded the work are constant incentives to better service.

The Directory contains a valuable fund of information concerning State, County and City Executives, Banks Asylums, Hospitals, and Homes, Building, Loan and Savings Associations, Cemeteries, Charity Organizations, Churches, Clubs, College Societies, Courts, Federal Officers, Foreign Consular Corps, Insurance Companies, Labor Organizations, Libraries, Newspapers and Periodicals, Professional and Dental Colleges, Miscellaneous Organizations, Real Estate Societies, Post Office Data, Public Buildings and Halls, Parks, Public and Private Schools, Railways, Secret Societies, etc.

POPULATION OF GREATER INDIANAPOLIS 325,890.

The Federal census of 1920 credited Indianapolis with a population of 314,194, an increase over 1910 of 80,544 or 34.46 per cent.; but the enumeration for the census of 1920 was taken many months prior to the publication of this Directory and it was confined to the corporation limits, while the enumeration for this Directory extended over a large area of adjacent suburban territory, the residents of which are allied to Indianapolis by social and business interests and intimately connected in every relation except governmental.



In this issue of the Directory there are listed 130,356 individual names; a conservative estimate of the population is obtained by multiplying the number of names by 2½, to allow for the names of married women and children which have not been included in the enumeration. This gives Greater Indianapolis a population of 325,890.

A complete library including directories of all the principal cities is maintained in our offices, 112-114 East Maryland Street, for the convenience and free use of our patrons. For the benefit of our advertisers and as a means of advertising the City and its business interests, copies of this edition of the Indianapolis City Directory will be placed on file in the Directory Libraries in all of the larger cities throughout the country.

DISTINCTIONS WHICH GIVE THE CITY SUPREMACY AS A MODERN PROGRESSIVE AMERICAN COMMUNITY, FURNISHED AND COMPILED BY INDIANAPOLIS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Indianapolis is 55 miles from the center of population of the United States.

It is in the geographical center of manufacturing of the United States.

It is in population, transportation facilities and volume of business transacted, the largest inland city, not on a navigable stream, in the United States.

It has a population of 326,762, 82% of which are native born (white); and 2,000,000 people live within 100 miles of the city.

It is the capital of Indiana and in the geographical center of the state with railroad or electric railway connections with every part of the state.

It has an area of 42 square miles.

It has 17 steam railroads connecting all the cities in the central west. Freight shipments can be made through the Springfield and Peoria gateways thus avoiding the St. Louis or Chicago congestions districts. Direct connections are also made with New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia and all other eastern cities.

The thirteen electric interurban lines radiating from Indianapolis comprise one of the most extensive systems in the United States. The terminal building, train sheds, tracks and freight houses are valued at $1,316,151. From this station approximately 20,888 passengers arrive and depart daily. The total number of passengers arriving and departing during the year 1920 was 7,645,120. Passenger cars made 127,827 round trips and freight cars 18,369 round trips.

Indianapolis has 161 miles of city electric car lines operating over double tracks, with 5c fare.

More cities of 30,000 population and over can be reached in a night's ride from Indianapolis than from any other city in the United States, embracing a zone including Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Memphis, St. Louis, Peoria, Springfield, etc.

Every one of the seventeen railroads entering Indianapolis is served by a belt railroad, fourteen miles in length, which surrounds the city and gives every industrial plant ready access to each radiating line. The industrial sites along the "Belt" are, therefore, very desirable.

The various railroad freight terminals in Indianapolis lie so near together that they might almost be regarded as joint terminals. The two principal freight houses are less than a block apart; and the two most remote are separated by only ten blocks. All freight stations are within easy reach of the wholesale district.

Indianapolis has three direct steam railroads to the coal fields of Indiana.

It has two steam roads direct to the stone quarries of southern Indiana.

Indianapolis is pre-eminently an industrial city because of its geographical location in relation to the general market, because of its exceptional shipping facilities, abundance of labor, the excellence of its labor conditions, and the nearness of the fuel supply.

It had 292.44 miles of permanently improved streets January 1, 1921.

It has 429 miles of sewers.

Indianapolis has five public auditoriums with combined seating capacity of 12,000 which are available for state and national conventions. Tomlinson Hall, the gift of Mr. Daniel Tomlinson, alone will seat 3,500 people. It is owned and maintained by the city.

Indianapolis has 70,000 families, 65% of whom own their homes. It has the reputation of a home-owning city. Building permits issued in 1920 showed a valuation of $15,284,119.00.

According to the latest government report, there are 124,000 wage earners in Indianapolis establishments.

Indianapolis has several very large industrial buildings for small manufacturing concerns, which supply space, power and other facilities at reasonable cost.

The city enjoys an exceptionally low rate for electric power. The rate ranges, in general, from three cents per k. w. energy charge for the first 250 k. w.'s to one cent per k. w., with a demand charge of $3.00 or less per k. w. per month.

It has artificial gas at 90 cents a thousand feet. This is one of the lowest rates for artificial gas of any city in the United States.

Electric light and heat are furnished in Indianapolis by competing companies at minimum rates. The city has a low street car fare as compared with a majority of American cities. Pure water is furnished in Indianapolis at a remarkably low rate.

It has 450 miles of water mains, and 30,000,000 gallons of water is used each day. The water supply is abundant and pure. No other city surpasses Indianapolis in the excellence of its water. The value of the company's properties is $12,500,000.00.

A larger stock of iron and steel is carried in Indianapolis than is carried in any other city in the Central West outside of Chicago.

An excellent grade of steam coal, yielding an average of 12,382 B. T. U. per pound, is obtained from the Indiana coal fields at an average haul of only 90 miles. The freight to Indianapolis on this coal is $1.26 a ton.

Indianapolis is the commercial center of an agricultural territory of great wealth. Within 100 miles of Indianapolis farm crops were produced in 1920 to the value of $500,000,000. Live stock within the same area was worth $275,000,000.00. Total farm property lying within 200 miles of Indianapolis amounts to at least $10,000,000,000.

The Indianapolis market has the distinction of being the largest "drive in" market of the United States. More cattle and hogs are taken in by this market than come other than by railroad, because of the gigantic motor truck traffic that has been built up.

Directory Libraries

¶ Every Polk office has a library of directories of various cities. These are maintained for the convenience of our patrons, and they are constantly supplying information of many different kinds to people who come to use them.

¶ City Directories are City Catalogs. They contain a list of everybody and everything within a city. Many of the more progressive concerns buy directories of various cities as they are issued for mailing list purposes.

Men of Affairs—

Safeguard their Estates by appointing a responsible Trust Company to act as Executor or Trustee. There is no reason why smaller estates should not be similarly protected. They are in greater need of it---can less afford to incur risk.

Any man with property to bequeath to his heirs should take this means of safeguarding them against unwise investment and also avoiding the uncertainties of individual trusteeship due to possible death, sickness or absence. A personal call or correspondence invited.

POSITIVE ACTION

When you are ready to take your business course, act positively, directly, definitely.

This school gives its whole time to the teaching of the business subjects. It is truly a "SCHOOL OF SPECIALIZATION." An active and intense business atmosphere pervades all departments.

As students become qualified for office positions, our FREE EMPLOYMENT DEPARTMENT is at their service. This department aims to keep in very close touch with business firms and their requirements.

This is one of the INDIANA BUSINESS COLLEGES — Chas. C. Cring, Pres., and Ora E. Butz, Gen. Mgr. The others are located at Marion, Muncie, Anderson, Lafayette, Richmond, Columbus, Logansport, Vincennes, Newcastle, Kokomo, Crawfordsville, and Peru.

You should see this school in operation. That is the only way you can get a correct idea of the work it is doing. But if you cannot call, be sure to write or telephone at once for "BUDGET OF INFORMATION." Phones Auto. 27-614 and Main 1686. Fred W. Case, Principal.

THE MAAS-NEIMEYER LUMBER CO. maintains an organization, stock, and plant, fully equipped to meet the largest and most exacting lumber needs of builders and manufacturers.

Our mill employs skilled men whose training has been to regard quality in their workmanship above quantity, and we have supplied millwork to many of the largest buildings and finest homes in Indianapolis where quality was a requisite. Quite a number of local manufacturers have utilized our facilities for manufacturing wood specialties to detail.

Our stocks are unusually large, comprising practically all the merchantable hardwoods, Southern pine, Western and Northern woods, heavy timbers, heavy joists, boards and dimension stock. We sell in carload lots as well as at retail and will welcome an opportunity to serve you.
